

Chicago, Illinois – The Filipino American Community Health Initiative of Chicago (FACHIC) will be presenting a heart healthy cooking demonstration of Low Fat Leche Flan, a traditional Filipino dessert, in partnership with St. John's United Methodist Church on Sunday, May 18, 2014 from 2:00 – 3:00 PM at the church located at 1100 Ontario Street in Oak Park, Illinois.

This cooking demonstration of Low Fat Leche Flan is the final of three demonstrations part of FACHIC's Heart Healthy Cooking for the Filipino Community program that received a 2013-2014 Community Action Grant from the American Heart Association. The featured heart healthy Low Fat Leche Flan recipe is from the American Heart Association's Mula sa Pusong recipe booklet.

FACHIC staff and leaders from St. John's United Methodist Church will be on hand to conduct an interactive cooking demonstration incorporating tips and suggestions for heart healthy alternatives in traditional Filipino cooking. Free samples of low fat leche flan will be available to participants. Free recipe booklets and health materials will be distributed. As part of FACHIC's Heart Healthy Cooking for the Filipino Community program, a new heart healthy Filipino recipe from Mula sa Pusong is released each month on FACHIC's website. A copy of Low Fat Leche Flan is available online for download at <http://www.fachic.org/lecheflan>.
